It's often forgotten that FTP has two modes of operation - one for text files and the other for binary (image) files. In the good old days, connecting from a command line ftp client, we'd carefully remember to set the transfer mode before requesting a file - or we'd run into exactly the sort of problem you seem to be having.

Usually I want to open Gmail in Chrome and URLs pointing to my development server in Firefox. For everything else I use Safari. There is this nifty free app called LinCastor that enables you to register your own handler for an URL. Although it had been designed to register your own non-standard URL schemes, it can intercept standard http and https as well.
